2010

Over 80% of Haitian youth drop out of school after 6th grade because they can't afford to continue their education.

Organizational Overview

PAUL HAGGIS

It was on a trip to Haiti that I first met Father Rick Frechette, an American doctor and community organizer who'd been working in the slums of Port-au-Prince for over two decades. He and his small team run the St. Luke Foundation, and have built an orphanage, medical clinics, street schools, and a pediatric hospital that is the only free hospital serving the children of one of the largest slums in the Western Hemisphere. They have done all this with little support and a lot of imagination, succeeding where many bigger and better-funded organizations have failed, largely by empowering the people with whom they work.

Artists for Peace and Justice encourages peace and social justice and addresses issues of poverty in communities around the world. Our immediate goal is to serve children and their families in the poorest communities in Haiti through programs in education, health and dignity.

Thanks to their efforts, families in the slums have clean water to drink, children can look forward to a meal every day, and people in some of the poorest communities in the world have the opportunity to become self-sufficient through high-quality education.

Artists for Peace and Justice is dedicated to helping Father Rick and the St. Luke Foundation achieve their goals. We give grants for specific projects, where every penny has an impact, and every dollar goes to help the children of Haiti.

In the spring of 2010, we noticed the need in Haiti for secondary education and committed to building the first free secondary school to serve the poorest communities in Haiti. By October, we welcomed the inaugural class of 400 students. When construction on the school is complete, it will provide full scholarships — including tuition, uniforms, and nutritious meals — to approximately 3,000 students every year. Together with our implementing partners, the St. Luke Foundation, we are working as hard as possible to make sure our dream becomes a reality.

On behalf of the Board of Artists for Peace and Justice, thank you for your support. It is because of you that we are able to make a difference in the lives of the children of Haiti.

Paul Haggis,
for the Board of Artists for Peace and Justice

HAITI:

BEFORE THE EARTHQUAKE

Haiti was the poorest nation in the Western hemisphere.

- 55% of the population were living in extreme poverty.
- 1.2 million children were living in the slums and extremely vulnerable to violence, exploitation and abuse.
- Only 50% of Haitians had access to clean drinking water.
- 1.9 million people did not have enough food to eat.

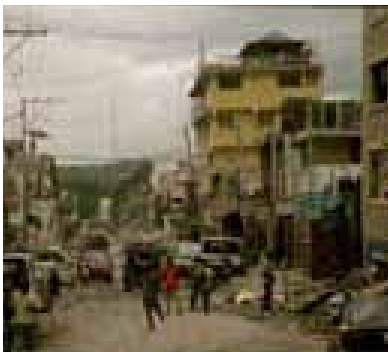

The Interim Haiti Recovery Commission (IHRC) was approved by the government of Haiti to help steer international donations.

HAITI: An Overview

More than 1,000 tent camps remain teeming with 1.2 million people across Port-au-Prince. Relocation to longer-term housing is hampered by rubble and land ownership.

HAITI:

THE AFTERMATH

On January 12, 2010, a 7.0 magnitude earthquake struck Haiti, devastating the capital of Port-au-Prince and the surrounding areas.

- Over 220,000 Haitians were killed and 300,000 more were injured.
- 87% of schools in Port-au-Prince were destroyed.
- Over 1 million people are still living in tent camps.
- The cholera epidemic has claimed over 6,000 lives to date.

OUR PROGRAMS

Our immediate goal is to serve children and their families in the poorest communities in Haiti by supporting programs in education, health and dignity.

APJ Programs

EDUCATION

Over 80% of Haitian youth drop out of school after 6th grade because they can't afford to continue their education. To address this need, Artists for Peace and Justice is building the Academy for Peace and Justice, the first free secondary school to serve the very poor in Haiti. At full capacity, the school will provide a free high-quality education to approximately 3,000 students every year.

DIGNITY

Less than 2/3 of Haiti's population have formal jobs. To address this need, Artists for Peace and Justice is committed to supporting projects that provide jobs to the local community. The construction of the Academy for Peace and Justice created dozens of jobs for the local community, and over 40 Haitians work at the Academy full-time as teachers and administrators.

HEALTH

Only 1 in 10,000 Haitians has access to a physician. To address this need, Artists for Peace and Justice supports the health initiatives of the St. Luke Foundation, funding surgeries at St. Damien's Children's hospital and the St. Philomena Cholera Hydration Center. With APJ's support, the cholera center was constructed just 36 hours after the epidemic hit.

APJ Partners

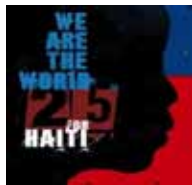

St. Luke Foundation

The St. Luke Foundation is the grassroots organization run by Father Rick Frechette that has been working on the ground in Haiti for over 20 years. St. Luke runs extensive programs in both health and education, saving thousands of lives every year and educating thousands more in its network of 29 primary schools. APJ is lucky to have St. Luke as our implementing partner on the ground in Haiti. St. Luke enables APJ to help make a difference in Haiti and we are grateful to work by their side.

Francesca Rava Foundation and NPH Italia

The Francesca Rava Foundation (FRF) is APJ's sister organization in Haiti, and also supports the work of Father Rick and the St. Luke Foundation. FRF supports many of Father Rick's initiatives, including funding primary schools and many important medical programs. FRF also supports the Francisville Vocational School, enabling much-needed job training for the local community.

We Are The World Foundation (WATW)

We Are The World Foundation is a grant-making organization committed to the reconstruction of Haiti. WATW is partnering with APJ to fund a music school on the APJ campus - the Quincy Jones and Lionel Richie School of Music. The facilities will include practice rooms, a performance theater and a recording studio for the students and the community to learn and benefit from music and the arts.

OUR PARTNERS

Artists for Peace and Justice is successful thanks to our strong partnerships in Haiti. We are proud to work side by side with incredible friends.

Antoine Edy
Headmaster of the APJ Academy

Dear friends
of Artists for Peace and Justice,

My name is Antoine Edy. I am the Headmaster of the Academy for Peace and Justice in Port Au Prince.

When the earthquake came in January of 2010 many of the schools of the capital collapsed, including the school where I was headmaster. As a country we were devastated. Haiti has always struggled to have enough schools to serve her children and after the earthquake we really suffered.

I began working with Artists for Peace and Justice and St Luc when the school was just an empty field. We worked hard to open on time and it was with great excitement that we opened our doors to nearly 400 children in October 2010. The Academy for Peace and Justice is a free secondary school for Haiti's very poor. In a country where secondary education is nearly non-existent, and children often turn to the streets after primary school due to lack of options, I am deeply proud of our school. We continue to grow with your amazing support.

We will open the doors of our new building in late September 2011 and welcome a new class to learn. Today is the last day of school and the students are taking their final exams. We have come a long way and as I look out over the courtyard it brings me great joy to see our staff and teachers working so hard to make sure that each student passes and will never again get left behind. Our school is thriving because of you and your support and I want to thank you for that on behalf of the students, staff and administration.

We have opened our school in the face of the greatest of challenges. We have sweat and toiled for this beacon of hope and the road has been difficult. We will continue to grow as our students grow each day bringing new joy and knowledge. From the rubble grows hope and light from the dark. Thank you.

Antoine Edy
Headmaster, APJ Academy
